Located an hour northwest of Cincinnati or west of Dayton, this expansive par 72 layout stretching more than 260 acres of rolling terrain offers large undulating greens, more than 30 sand bunkers, four ponds and many mature trees. The signature par 3 16th hole challenges players to carry 175 yards of water before their ball can find a safe, dry spot on the green. This Jack Kidwell designed course is bordered by 200 acres of virgin sugar maple and beech forest teeming with wildflowers and native wildlife. ## MAUMEE BAY

Lake winds full of mischief and the extra-long rough lend Scottish links style to this course on the shores of Lake Erie. The par 72 layout is wide open and fully exposed to the elements. The signature 14th hole is a twisting par 5 that features water hazards off the tee and near the green. This Arthur Hills designed course is located just 14 miles east of Toledo.

The par 71 layout spans 250 very hilly acres with uphill approaches on nearly every hole, making this feel like the longest 6,000 yard course in the state. The only guarantee of a level lie is at the tee—from there, the adventure begins with virtually 18 signature holes.

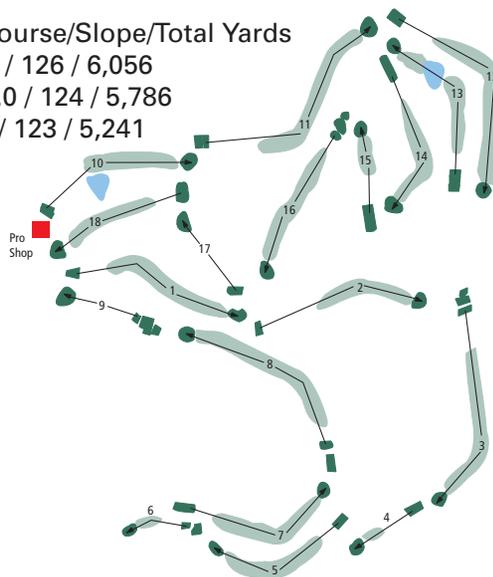

Salt Fork is located just outside of Cambridge, 35 miles east of Zanesville, and a little more than an hour's drive south of Akron or Canton, or north of Marietta.

SHAWNEE

This lush course near the banks of the beautiful Ohio River near Portsmouth is easy to walk and appears tame, but don't be deceived. Jack Kidwell designed the par 72 layout to sport plenty of water hazards over its 6,407-yard length. Ponds on the tee shot and the approach make the 17th hole especially tricky. The 5th hole is simply breathtaking, coming around the bend and opening up to spectacular view of the Ohio River winding below.
